

STICKNEY TALKS OF OMAHA

Great Western President Tells Citizens to Stick Up for Their Town.

DON'T ADMIT THAT RATES ARE BAD

Tells Business Men to Get Out and Make Opportunities for Improving General Condition of Omaha.

President A. B. Stickney of the Chicago Great Western railway received the compliment of the largest attendance of the year at the special meeting Friday in the Commercial club of the Real Estate exchange, about sixty being present. In introducing the speaker President Harrison of the exchange said that he thought he voiced the sentiments of all in saying that they felt highly honored at the presence of the distinguished guest, who had already perhaps done more to stir up the people of Omaha than many citizens who had lived here all their lives. Mr. Harrison felt that even Mr. Stickney, who had been accustomed to success always, must feel gratified at having put such life into the city.

Mr. Stickney, after saying that he felt honored at the invitation to address the exchange and that the Chicago Great Western was as much interested in the increase of Omaha prosperity as any citizen, having put its capital here, brought out the following ideas in a straightforward talk, which ideas, he thought, would lead toward prosperity:

"The only way good can be done for Omaha is for the people of Omaha to go ahead and do it themselves. It seems a self-evident proposition that if every individual does all he can to increase his own business he increases the aggregate business."

The speaker had been told that there was a scarcity of houses here—residences and wholesale quarters. This was legitimate business for real estate men. They had not usually the capital to erect large buildings, nor had the business men whose business grew faster than their capital. It was the business of real estate men to find capital which wanted interest investments to build these warehouses. There were plenty such in this section and in the east and the time was ripe.

Must Stand Up for City.

"People can't build up a city—get men to build factories, etc., by publishing the fact that railways coming here are discriminating against the city," said Mr. Stickney. "Any man willing to locate would be frightened away. It is true the rates as they exist are not conducive to a grain market here, but this is no more so than the cattle rates were before the beginning of stock yards. If a start were made, without doubt the rates would be conceded. Freight agents allowed rates to get out of line, but when there is business to fight for, then is the time. There is a difference between fighting and scolding. No man in Omaha ought to admit that the city has not the best rates. Chicago is grossly discriminated against—never let it be known. I feel that a grain market is no doubt possible here, but it must be carefully worked up. It is not now necessary for the Commercial club and Real Estate exchange to have committees, but later might exert beneficial influence if this had not been worn out beforehand."

Taking St. Paul (because he was familiar with it) he said that in that city there had been absolutely no demand for real estate for speculative purposes since 1873 and vacant land could not be sold. In the last two years had come a demand for dwelling houses of from $2,500 to $3,500 cost. One firm had built fifty such houses last year and fifty more this year with the intention of selling them. They took, say, $1,000 in cash down, then mortgaged property for about what it would sell for, say $1,500. Then took second mortgage, say $1,000, from occupant, to be paid for in installments of about the proportion of rentals. In this way they had got money out of lands and kept it in circulation.

On motion of H. T. Clarke, Jr., the exchange thanked President Stickney for his remarks. F. E. Her, D. C. Patterson and D. H. Mercer endorsed the ideas of the speaker.

Announcements of the Theaters.

With matinee and evening performances today the opening week will be brought to a close at the Orpheum and it has attested strongly in favor of vaudeville. The program was one of excellence throughout and gave unusual satisfaction. The attendance has been very large and the fashionables attended to an extent that attests it is still their popular form of entertainment. Eight established numbers will be on the program for next week, beginning with a matinee tomorrow. They are: Haynes and Vidocq, with an assortment of riba, aquila, song and story; Waterbury Brothers and Tenny, the versatile accomplished instrumentalists and fun makers; Fleury Trio, the latest European sensation in terpsichore; McWaters and Tyson company in a musical comedy sketch called "Scenes in a Dressing Room"; Hodges and Lauchmeyer, the nightingales; Jesselin Trio, novelty artists; Annette Moore, the beautiful young soprano, and new scenes projected by the Kinodrome.

The only matinee of "A Scout's Revenge" at the Krug will be given this afternoon. The engagement of this sensational play, closing with the performance tonight, and tomorrow afternoon "Under Southern Skies" will be presented by a big company.

A matinee and evening performance today closes the engagement of "The Boy at the Boat." The company of seventy-five is thoroughly competent and is equipped with new scenery and costumes for the perfect rendition of this merry conceit. The good old songs are all well sung and the choruses given with a jingle and snap as they should be.

Judged from the advance sale, the attendance at the opening performance of the "Ben Hur" engagement on Monday night will be large, than on the occasion of its first appearance here 1872. The return engagement bids fair to be one of the most popular bookings of the winter season. Those who expect to go are urged to bear in mind the necessity of coming early to the theater, for owing to the length of the performance the curtain will rise promptly each time at the hour announced and those who are not then in their seats will miss the great tableau of the star of Bethlehem and the wise men of the east, one of the most beautiful incidents of the whole production. The engagement is for one week, beginning on Monday evening. The curtain will rise at 8 o'clock for the evening performances and at 2 o'clock at the matinees.
